Message from Director-General of UNESCO

to celebrate its 60th anniversary this year, UNESCO has embarked on a stimulating and broad-based programme of conferences, discussions, reflections, artistic performances, musical programmes and outreach events. While these activities will stretch well into next year in an effort of sustained commitment and renewal, the day of 16 November stands out: this was the day the UNESCO Constitution was adopted. Hence, it is the Organization's official birthday.

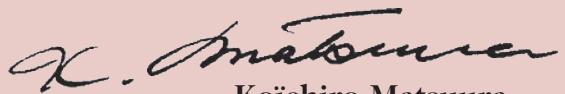

Today's concert has been organized by the Melody for Dialogue among Civilizations Association and is a special gift to the entire UNESCO community on the occasion of the jubilee. It comes in the context of promoting dialogue among civilizations, cultures and peoples, which is one of UNESCO's major tasks. Indeed, it is no accident that 16 November coincides with the International Day of Tolerance, which underlines one of the key values espoused by the international community and which is at the heart of all dialogue.

The concert represents an innovative and exciting approach in several ways. First of all, the musical performances involve the live interaction between traditional instruments and musicians from different cultures, in this way emphasizing that dialogue goes beyond words and can thrive also in the realm of music. Furthermore, the resort to common musical themes and melodies in this joint performance by a classical orchestra and musicians playing traditional instruments highlights a novel dimension of artistic creativity and engagement that is rarely seen and heard. And lastly, the concert gives practical expression to a hallmark of UNESCO's Constitution, namely international cooperation. The dialogue between traditional, classical and contemporary music epitomizes the very essence of international cooperation in a field that is not often singled out in this context.

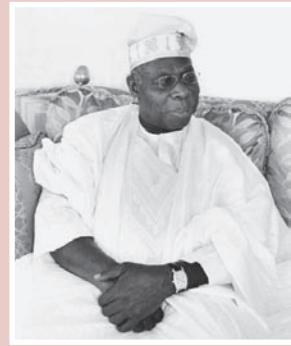

Let me thank sincerely all the participating artists who are honoring UNESCO tonight with their wonderful talent and creative power. I also express my gratitude to all the supporters who have made this concert possible and I am particularly pleased to note that they include governments, the private sector and NGOs. And last but not least, I deeply appreciate the initiative and great efforts of the Melody for Dialogue among Civilizations Association in producing this anniversary concert, bringing together such diverse artistic talent and assuring such broad support – in short, in making this concert a reality for all of us to enjoy.

Message from President of the Federal Republic of Nigeria

Chairman of the African Union and Honorary President, “Melody for Dialogue among Civilizations” Association

the celebration of the 60th anniversary of UNESCO is a moment of joy for all friends, partners, stakeholders and well-wishers of this unique specialized agency of the United Nations. UNESCO has been a trusted and effective partner for Africa, in particular, most conspicuously through its support to NEPAD. Let me therefore salute the work and accomplishments of UNESCO, especially in the fields of education – where it is an unrivalled champion of Education for All -, of the natural as well as the social and human sciences, of culture – where the Organisation has excelled as promoter of cultural diversity, including heritage in all its forms - and of communications and information. Through its activities, UNESCO is also making important contributions to the global fight against poverty and it has become an undisputed leader in promoting a dialogue among civilizations, cultures and peoples.

It is true that dialogue begins at home. Yet, in a globalizing world we are all challenged to engage with neighbors and old and new partners from countries far and near. Too often, we consider dialogue only as a verbal exchange, forgetting many other dimensions particularly those which are built on and nurtured by human and artistic creativity.

Music and musical interaction embody a particularly important focus of human interaction. They appeal to the minds, hearts and soul of each and every one of us. If musicians can dialogue with each other in harmony, there is no reason why this cannot equally be done in all other walks of national and international life.

As Honorary President of the Council of the “Melody for Dialogue among Civilizations” Association it is therefore my particular pleasure and satisfaction to see such an innovative concert materialise in the halls of UNESCO, given its unique mandate of building the defenses of peace in the minds of men. Mutual understanding, respect for the other and above all tolerance are crucial if we want to shape a peaceful world for the future, a world which celebrates and thrives through cultural diversity and dialogue.

Africa, in general, and Nigeria, in particular, are exceedingly happy to be part of tonight's musical exploration and interaction. Musicians from all corners of the world will display tonight jointly and individually the power of their art and talent. Let us draw on this experience and let music give us all the inspiration and the strength to carry forward our manifold tasks and obligations.

My appreciation goes to all who have made this spectacular event possible. And above all, I rejoice in celebrating with UNESCO – our UNESCO – its round anniversary! May it continue its valuable contributions to sustainable development and human wellbeing!

Olusegun Obasanjo

Abuja, November 2005

Message from the President of the “Melody for Dialogue among Civilizations” Association

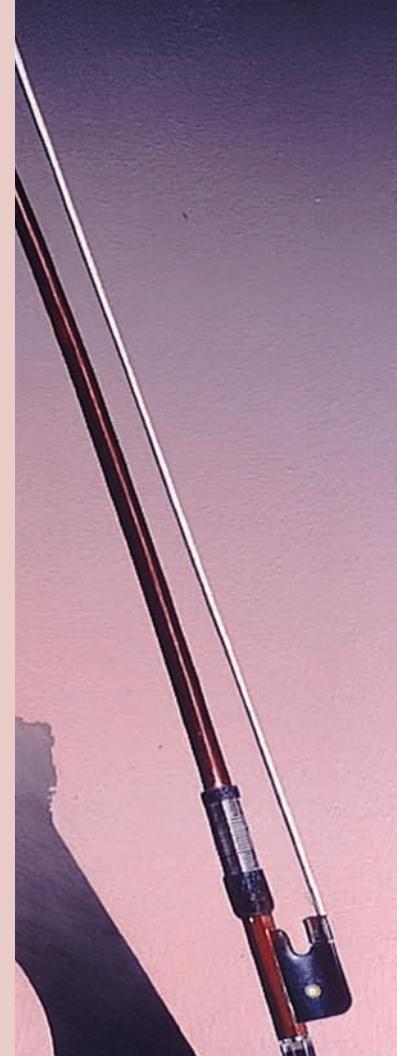

Once I read “Music exists and will emerge as a symbol of what might come to pass in a future age when the rage of war gives way to reason”. This statement captures well the vision, ambition and focus of the “Melody for Dialogue among Civilizations” Association: An Association which has endeavoured to produce this innovative and imaginative program for such a noble cause tonight.

The firm belief of the Association is that, music and musical performance are a major component of intangible heritage that constitute an integral part of the world’s heritage. To that end, we have decided to, more explicitly, recognize its potential as an important bridge between peoples and value its contribution to furthering a dialogue among civilizations, cultures and communities. Today, we can no longer myopically look to our own roots and show disinterest or hostility to other cultures or other musical genres.

We must share the fact that music is one of the oldest forms of human communications which could be found in all cultures at all times. In the age of globalization it has become in many ways the most global and accessible feature of the “global village”. It is a universal and common language easily understood by all, regardless of culture, religion or socio-political orientation.

To that end, we draw on the power of music, melodies, original instruments and the skills of accomplished artists to interact with each other and to respond to melodies from cultures, rather than theirs through musical variations performed on their instruments. This is a most practical and touching approach to harnessing the power of creativity of peoples for dialogues and mutual understanding and respect, without having to resort to language and words.

Let us hope that music from the memory is not reduced to the status of objects destined to fill museums and recordings. Because as Jean Clair stated in his “reflection on the fine arts”, “Should the museum win, it is thus that the desert encroaches still further”.

Mme Marisa Berenson

marisa Berenson is an international actress and former model. The grand-daughter of legendary fashion designer Elsa Schiaparelli, her father was an American diplomat, and her mother was Marchessa Cicciapouti di Guilliano. She has worked with such greats as Luchino Visconti, Bob Fosse, Clint Eastwood and many others and has been in many international film, television and theatre productions.

Marisa Berenson has been associated with UNESCO for over 12 years. In 2001, the Director-General, Mr Koichiro Matsuura, nominated her as UNESCO Artist for Peace. Subsequently the UNESCO-Berry Berenson Perkins Fund for Non-Violence Education for children in distress was created. Ms Berenson requested that this fund be named after her sister, who died tragically on board American Airlines Flight 11, which crashed into the World Trade Center in the terrorist attacks of September 11, 2001.

Artists Performing during the Concert:

Dionysios Dervis-Bournias

◆ Chef d'orchestre ◆ France ◆

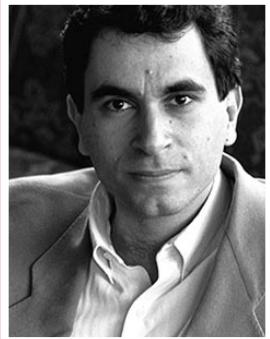

Parallèlement à une carrière de guitariste classique (concerts en soliste du RPO sous la direction de Vladimir Ashkenazy, enregistrements chez Philips) Dionysios Dervis-Bournias entreprend des études de direction d'orchestre. Il suit les conseils et les répétitions de Simon Rattle (Londres et Birmingham 93-94). Sir Georg Solti l'encourage de se consacrer exclusivement à la direction d'orchestre et le recommande à l'Orchestre de Paris où il occupe l'unique poste d'assistant chef d'orchestre (96-99). Pour ses débuts à Florence à la tête de « I Solisti Fiorentini », la Repubblica voit en lui une nouvelle promesse de la direction d'orchestre. Directeur de l'Orchestre de chambre d'Italie (2000), il dirige en novembre 2001, en présence du Président Bill Clinton, l'Orchestre Colonne dans un concert à la mémoire des victimes du 11 septembre. Passionné par le XVIII^e siècle, il travaille l'interprétation baroque auprès de Reinhard Goebel. Pendant la saison 2004-2005, des artistes tels que Brigitte Engerer et Béatrice Uria-Monzon ont joué sous sa direction. Ses projets pour la saison 2005-2006 incluent une tournée en Russie, la parution chez Universal de son premier enregistrement ainsi qu'une tournée aux États-Unis à la tête de son Orchestre XXI, spécialisé au répertoire du 18^e et 21^e siècle avec entre autres, des créations de Nicolas Bacri et Michael Levinas.

Les commandes de l'Orchestre XXI sont sponsorisées par Le Fonds d'Action Sacem

Nicolas Bacri

◆ Compositeur ◆ France ◆

Né en 1961. Il étudie le piano, l'analyse, l'écriture et la composition avec Françoise Gangloff, Christian Manen et, à partir de 1979, avec Louis Saguer.

En 1983, il remporte un premier prix de composition du Conservatoire National Supérieur de Musique de Paris (classe de Serge Nigg et Michel Philippot) et est nommé pensionnaire de l'Académie de France à Rome (Villa Médicis).

De 1991 à 1993, il est pensionnaire de la Casa Velasquez à Madrid.

Invité par l'association «Pour que l'esprit vive», il réside depuis 1993 au domaine de La Prée (Indre), où il co-organise les Rencontres Musicales de La Prée (annuelles). Nommé en septembre 1995 Premier Compositeur en Résidence de l'Orchestre Symphonique Français, il est depuis la dissolution de ce dernier compositeur en résidence de l'Orchestre de Picardie.

Parallèlement à son activité de compositeur, Nicolas Bacri a été délégué artistique du Service de Musique de Chambre de Radio France de 1987 à 1991. Il a reçu des commandes du Ministère de la Culture, de Radio France, de nombreux festivals et d'ensembles français et étrangers.

Dans un catalogue de plus d'une cinquantaine d'œuvres, retenons quatre Quatuors à cordes, un Concerto pour violon, trois suites pour violoncelle seul et une Sinfonia da Requiem.

Les commandes de l'Orchestre XXI sont sponsorisées par Le Fonds d'Action Sacem.

Franghiz Ali-Zadeh

◆ Artist and Composer ◆ Azerbaijan ◆

Born in Baku in 1947. As a child she was encouraged to learn traditional Western piano music but not Mugam, the ancient and immensely sophisticated Azeri traditional professional music. She graduated from the Baku Conservatory in composition and piano again (as was normal in Soviet Azerbaijan) not studying Mugam and later received a doctorate in musicology. Eventually she devoted herself to the study of Mugam and, as a composer, has fused characteristics of traditional Azerbaijani music with modern Western techniques. From 1973 to 1976 she served as assistant to Kara Karaev, the founder of western-style composition in Azerbaijan. As a pianist she became known for her performances of composers such as Schoenberg, Webern, Messiaen, Cage, and Crumb, which she presented in Baku for the first time. She has toured the United States performing mixed programs including her own music and appeared in New York with the Kronos Quartet. She has taught at the Baku Conservatory, but from 1992 to 1998 lived in Mersin, Turkey, as a result of the devastation of Azerbaijan during the long war with Armenia. Her music is frequently heard internationally.

Yann Robin

◆ Compositeur ◆ France ◆

En 1995, il étudie avec Georges Bœuf et reçoit le Premier Prix de Composition à l'unanimité, accompagné d'un prix de la SACEM.

Il poursuit des études d'Harmonie et de Contrepoint CNR de Paris, et suit des études de Musicologie à la Sorbonne.

En 2003, il entre au Conservatoire Supérieur de Paris, et étudie avec Frédéric Durieux et Michaël Lévinas où il obtient son prix d'analyse.

Après avoir reçu une commande d'État du Ministère de la Culture par l'intermédiaire de la Confédération Musicale de France, il écrit « Les Couleurs du Temps » pour l'Orchestre National d'Harmonie des Jeunes.

En Janvier 2004, il remporte le Premier Prix du Concours International de Composition Frédéric Monpou de Barcelone avec « Styx ».

En 2005, il crée avec d'autres compositeurs l'Ensemble Multilatéral dirigé par Kanako Abe. Pour 2006, un concerto pour clarinette et contrebasse, écrit pour Alain Billard (soliste de l'Ensemble Intercontemporain), sera créé par l'Ensemble Orchestral Contemporain dirigé par Daniel Kawka.

Rachid Guerbas

◆ Guitare ◆ Algérie ◆

Il est né en Algérie et, dès son plus jeune âge, est nourri de musique populaire citadine algéroise et de musique sacrée diverse.

L'apprentissage de la guitare classique s'est fait conjointement avec celui de l'art arabo-andalou.

Au début des années 80, il poursuit des études en ethnomusicologie, effectue des séjours d'études en Turquie et en Syrie. Sa formation en musique classique occidentale lui donnera l'occasion de travailler avec de grands noms de la guitare classique tels Alexandre Lagoya, Carel Ahrms, Manuel Barrueco et Sergio Assad, et d'étudier la composition avec Maurice Ohanna. À la même période, il crée le premier ensemble de musique arabo-andalouse en France, du nom de Nawba.

En 1990, il crée l'Ensemble Albaycin de musique arabo-andalouse avec lequel il continue de mener un travail unique en matière de réhabilitation de ce patrimoine.

En 2001, il est sollicité par le Ministère algérien de la Culture pour créer et diriger le premier Ensemble National Algérien de Musique Arabo-Andalousienne, réunissant les trois écoles, Tlemcen, Alger et Constantine, une grande première dans l'histoire artistique de ce pays.

He won the best arranger award at the Curacao International Song Festival in 1988 and the Distant Accord Award at the Wiltern Theater "Los Angeles and in 1992 he was awarded the World Peace Movement Award at Los Angeles.

With over 20 years performing the world over, he turned to traditional music with deep interest in "Gambus".

Dragan Dautovski

◆ Kaval, Tambura and other instruments ◆
The Former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia ◆

Born in 1957 in the village of Rusinovo Berovo, Macedonia. He has composed many works for various instrumental and vocal soloists, groups, and orchestras, including usage of folk instruments performed or recorded in Macedonia and the region.

He teaches at the University of "Sts Cyril and Methodius" as a professor of folk instruments: Kaval, Gaida, and Tambura.

In 1992 he formed the ensemble "Mile Kolarovski" performing concerts in Macedonia and elsewhere. Music of the film "Before the Rain" was also composed and performed by this group. Mr Dautovski is a great musician who has mastered more than twenty different musical instruments.

Ara

◆ Talking Drum ◆ Nigeria ◆

The heritage of Ara is African. Her birth was shrouded in mystery, as she was being prepared by the ancestors for the task ahead of her as a music icon.

She was born into an aristocratic family in the early 70's that believes so much in keeping the good name of the family and as such, places so much premium on education and not "frivolities" like music.

She started playing African percussions like the conga in her primary school days, this she developed up to her secondary school where she formed her own band and later joined several bands cutting her teeth in music. She recorded some Afro beat tracks for a promotional outfit in Nigeria. In her sojourn for a proper identity of herself, her music, origin and identification of her roots she stumbled on the Motown of Africa known as Atunda ENT.

Li Yuan Yuan

◆ Erhu ◆ China ◆

Ms Li Yuanyuan began learning the Erhu from the Erhu recitalist, ZHU changyao, when she was young. She was the winner of the First Prize in the 1988 National Instrumental Music Competition (Juvenile Section), and four years later, in 1992, she won another First Prize in the Youth Section in the same competition. She entered the Department of Folk Music of the Central Conservatory of music in 1995, where she was taught by the famous Erhu artist, LIU Changfu. She joined the symphony orchestra of the China Opera and Dance Drama Theatre as soloist in 1999, and was transferred to the Chinese National Orchestra in 2001 where she performs as solo artist in Erhu. She has been invited to perform in Japan, Korea and Greece.

Lee Yong Gu

◆ Dae Gum ◆ Republic of Korea ◆

Le graduated from both the Chugye University for Arts and the Graduate School of Traditional Music at Yong In University. He is currently Honorary Head of the Orchestra of the National Traditional Music Institute and Adjunct assistant professor at the Chung Ang University, Department of Traditional Music. He received the Honorific Award by the Minister of Culture and Tourism as an outstanding member in the Performing Arts of the National Theater and won the Grand Prize in Wind Instruments at the 2003 KBS Traditional Music Awards. He has been performing since 1987, most recently he performed with the Tokyo Performing Arts Theater, Sapporo Kitara Theater in Japan and undertook a small bamboo flute duet performance at the 152nd KBS Regular Concert of Traditional Instrument Orchestra, National Traditional Music Institute, Arts and Music Hall.

Bora Dugić

◆ Frula ◆ Serbie-et-Monténégro ◆

Né à Šumadija, en Serbie, Bora Dugić est considéré aujourd’hui comme un des plus grands joueurs des instruments traditionnels, par sa fine expression artistique et par sa technique inégalée. Selon le virtuose roumain Dumitru Zamfira, Dugić a atteint la perfection dans la maîtrise de la frula, petite flûte des bergers. Par sa capacité de produire un univers sonore incomparable, plein de précisions colorées de tendres nuances frémissantes, il est universellement reconnu comme virtuose. Il est probablement le seul artiste au monde qui compose la musique qu'il interprète sur les instruments construits par lui-même.

Il a participé à deux reprises au festival de la musique européenne de Munich ainsi qu’au festival Rose d’Or de Montreux. Il a donné de nombreux concerts internationaux dont le dernier s'est produit dans le Concert Hall de Sydney Opera House.

Il joue avec Zoran Živković, né à Belgrade en 1950, pianiste et violoniste qui a participé à plus de 1600 concerts.

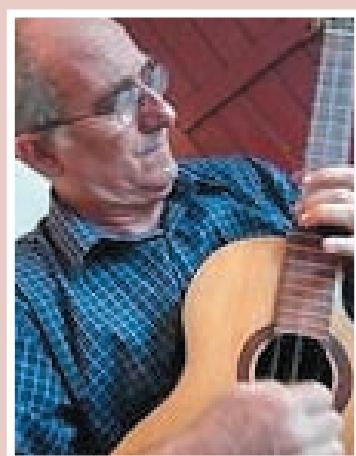

Efraín Amador

◆ Tres and Luth ◆ Cuba ◆

Efraín Amador, with his wife Doris Oropesa have created 35 years of artistic life together. They fare the Amanecer Duo.

This duo has undertaken several tours in Europe, Africa, the Middle East and Latin America. They embrace all styles of universal music, from the Renaissance to the 21st century. They created their own repertory of Cuban music, reaching deeply into the roots of folklore, in particular the son and punto cubano (traditional folkmusic). They have examined all genres such as folk dancing, dance, danzón, and Afro-Cuban music.

In 2005, Efraín Amador played his concert for Tres with the Orquesta Sinfónica Nacional at the «Amadeo Roldán» theatre in Havana. This Concert was the first of its kind written for this popular instrument and was the first time it was played in a theatre with an orchestra. Efraín, it is the founder of the Cuban School of Tres and Luth.

Kamal Sabbagh

◆ Kamanche ◆ Liban ◆

Né en septembre 1948 à Alep, il a commencé sa carrière musicale à l'âge de huit ans dans la chorale de St Dimitrios. Liu Fang

◆ Pipa ◆ China ◆

Montreal resident Liu Fang achieved an international reputation for her masterful and deeply spirited pipa playing. Born in 1974, in Kunming in the Chinese province of Yunnan, she began studying the pipa at the age of six and gave her first performance as a pipa soloist when she was nine. In 1985, she played for Queen Elizabeth during Her Majesty's visit to China. Honoured with several provincial and national prizes, Liu Fang graduated from the Shanghai Conservatory of Music, where she also studied the guzheng, a Chinese zither. Since moving to Canada in 1996, she has built up a remarkable artistic profile by captivating audiences and critics with the richness and grace of her playing as well as her wide-ranging repertoire.

A présent, il préside l'Association des musulmans de la ville de Châteaurenard en Provence.

Ballake Sissoko

◆ Kora ◆ Mali ◆

Ballake Sissoko, is one of the best kora players of a new generation of musicians in Mali. He first learned the kora very early on at his father's school. At the age of 14, he replaced his father in the Ensemble Instrumental National and by the late eighties was also playing in the electric bands of the most famous jelimuso. He was the first local kora player to master western modes and still provide the rhythmic structure to accompany the dance steps of the singers.

After performing with the prestigious Ensemble Instrumental National du Mali, and accompanying many Malian singers, he came to fame by performing solo or in duet with a host of musicians.

Open to every new adventure and encounter, Ballake Sissoko is a gifted instrumentalist who, inspired by tradition, was able to forge a personal style. A visionary figure and fine melodist, he is an excellent accompanist and superb composer.

Sandra Parra

◆ Violoncellist ◆ Colombia ◆

Graduated in 2002 from the 'Universidad Nacional de Colombia', with outstanding merits as a Violoncellist with an emphasis in instrumental studies.

She has worked with various Colombian composers including Mr. Cesar Lopez, who has helped her during the last 8 years to develop her musical training.

Apart from receiving extensive classical music training, Sandra has taken her passion into various directions, including composing musical scores for contemporary dance pieces, theatre, art installations, movies and documentaries.

She has had the opportunity to perform in many large theatres and auditoriums.

Since the beginning of 2005, Sandra has continued with her violoncello studies with Maestro Eduardo Valenzuela in Paris and during her free time teaches violoncello to children, and is a children orchestra director.
